SAN DIEGO, Sept. 28.—[Special.]

San Diego is in holiday attire today, and the entire town turned out to celebrate one of the greatest events in her history, the landing of the Portuguese-Spanish voyager in San Diego Bay 350 years ago.

For the past two days every train running into San Diego has been crowded, and on Tuesday it became necessary for the Santa Fé to double up its service. Six trains in all were sent in from Los Angeles, and all were crowded. There were fifty coaches in this afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock, when she steamed into the harbor, and was greeted with a salute. The San Francisco did not get back from the Hawaiian Islands in time to take part, nor did the Democrata put in an appearance to represent the Mexican government, as was expected.

Aside from these little disappointments the celebration came off according to programme. The city was pro-fusely and handsomely decorated, and the people of San Diego have reason to be proud of their celebration, and the manner in which they looked after the comfort and pleasure of their guests.
The Committee of Arrangements, headed by Gen. Eli H. Murray, were indefatigable in their efforts to please, and acquitted themselves very creditably, indeed.

It was necessary to rescue two or three people in boats but the others walked ashore and dried out in time to witness the procession. Striking features of the procession were three floats. At 2:45 o'clock the exercises opened with an eloquent invocation by Vicar-General Adam of Monterey and Los Angeles. Markham said that he preferred rather to speak of the San Diego of today than the San Diego of 350 years ago. It seemed but yesterday since San Diego had put on her metropolitan garb. Less than ten years ago there were less than 3000 people in the whole district of San Diego, and there were few buildings of even moderate importance, but there was one thing that San Diego had, and that was her noble band of pio-

Markham then paid a high compliment to the harbor of San Diego, which he said, was of all others, the ideal haven of rest for the sailor. He briefly outlined the progress of the city and county, and said that if the Nicaragua Canal or any other water way between the Atlantic and Pacific is constructed, there is no estimating the importance of San Diego. The Governor concluded his remarks by returning his thaffs for the honor conferred upon him in asking him to preside over the meeting, and was generously applauded.

Who left his footprints on the centuries;

that daring explorer.

Coming down to the discovery of California, the speaker gave a detailed account of Cabrillo's expedition, which resulted in the discovery of San Diego Bay, pointing out the place where the landing was made, a discovery by this modest Portuguese sailor in the service of Spain, which had rendered possible the great achievement, which had been made, and which had been so truthfully and allegorically portrayed to day. He then gave the details of the voyage up the Coast, naming the points at which the party stopped, and, which could be traced in his writings. There was some disappointment over the failure of the naval section of the display to materialize according to the advance notices. The Charleston was in the bay on time, and was duly rigged out in bunting and flags. The Baltimore arrived outside the heads late Tuesday evening, but as she did not have a pilot on board who knew the harbor very well the captain was afraid to venture in during the darkness, and as the tide was not favorable for crossing the bar, the vessel drawing nineteen and a half feet, she was compelled to wait until

AN OVATION TO GOV. TORRES.

At the conclusion of the poem, which was received with applause, Gov. Markham stated that he desired to make an innovation in the programme which had been handed him. There was pres-ent a distinguished citizen of Mexico, a man for whom all Americans entertained a high regard, and who, so far as he had had always treated Americans heard, had always treated Americans well in his borders. He had asked this gentleman to make a few remarks to the audience, or at least to allow himself to be presented to the assemblage. The first the gentleman had positively refused to do, but as to the latter he could do that without his permission. He then led to the front of the platform for Lauf Toyres of Lower California. Gov. Luis Torres of Lower California, who was received with an outburst of applause which testified to the high estern in which the seem in which the gentleman is held.
Gov. Torres gracefully bowed his acknowledgements and retired, after which the Mexican band rendered the national hymn of the sister republic, which also called forth applause.

VICAR-GENERAL ADAM'S ADDRESS

Vicar-General Adam was then introduced by Gov. Markham, and delivered a brief historic address, pointing out the influence of the Catholic religion the influence of the Catholic religion among the early explorers and their followers as shown by the names of the various points designated by them. He showed the great work of the mission fathers in their task of civilizing and Christianizing the savage Indians on this Coast, which was really inaugurated by Father Junius Serra, who founded by Father Junius Serra, who founded by Father Junipero Serra, who founded the first mission at San Diego in 1765. Father Adam showed that not only had Father Adam showed that not only had the fathers ministered to the spiritual wants of the Indian, but that they had also devoted themselves to the temporal welfare of their charges, and had not the missions been secularized, thereby destroying their power, the full effects of their work would now be apparent in California as it is full effects of their work would now be apparent in California, as it is in the sister republic of Mexico. Father Adam made a strong plea for the res-toration and preservation of the old missions, and indorsed the efforts of the Los Angeles society which has been or-ganized for that purpose. The speaker closed with a graceful tribute to the Stars and Stripes, them emblem of re-Stars and Stripes, them emblem of re-ligious and civil liberty.

Gov. Markham then announced that Gov. Markham then announced that the warships would give a search-light exhibition this evening, and that the vessels will be open to visitors tomorrow afternoon from 1:30 to 7:30 p.m. The Governor then returned thanks to the audience for their attention and incidentially made a strong plea for the amelioration of the condition of the Mission Indians. The services closed with the benediction by Father Adam with the benediction by Father Adam and the audience dispersed.

Continuing his voyage he discovered the Santa Barbara Islands, visited the adjacent coasts, and proceeded northward as far as Cape Mendocino, making frequent landings, but passing without observing the Golden Gate. His right arm baving been broken before leaving Santa Barbara Chanuel, and the wound failing to yield to treatment, he returned thither in great physical distress, and died January 3, 1343, on the island of Poesesion (now known as San Miguel), where his body was interred. All marks of the burial have been obliterated by time, and the grave cannot be found. On the death of Cabrillo the command of the expedition passed to Bartoleme Ferrelo, the chief pilot, who, after some further explorations, returned to Natividad. . . The fabled land of Cibola, with its seven wonderful cities, in the vicinity of the lower Gila, was a dream of the visonary friar. Marcos de Niza. He caught a glimpse of one of the golden cities in the summer of 1539, and returned with a story so glowing of what he had seen and heard that Gov. Coronado fitted out an expedition the following year for the conquest of Cibola He led a land force in person, with a small coasting squadron under Hernando de Alarcon to cooperate with him. No discovery of Importance was made by either. September he entered the harbor de Alarcon to cooperate with him. No discovery of importance was made by either. In July, 1540, Coronado took possession of what was supposed to be De Niza's Cibola, but its golden cities could not be found. For years, it was believed, however, that they somewhere existed.

Cortez was himself responsible for the story, communicated to his sovereign, of a nation of wealthy Amazons inhabiting an island a few days sail from the coast of Colima, and in 1534 Fortuna Ximenes and a party of mutineers went in search of it. The Commissioner Again in Court—An other Postponement.

ALBANY (N. Y.,) Sept. 28.—[By the ssociated Press.] Commissioner Peck and Stenographer Rodgers appeared in court again this afternoon Meegan, for the defense, asked that the indictments be sent back to the Police Court so that the case can be regularly and legally tried. He said that the secret action in the Police Court and before the grand jury on the part of the before the grand jury on the part of the District Attorney was prejudicial to the defense. The deponent was prepared to establish his entire innocence when examined before Police Justice Guttman, but was denied that right and the indictment was found, as deponent believes, to embarass him in his defense and disgrace him in the public eye with a view to affect election results. Meegan said that some of the grand jurors were incompetent and imgrand jurors were incompetent and im-

District Attorney Eaton replied, arguing that the charge against Peck was a case the grand jury could competently consider. The case went over until ferences Are Ended.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—[By the Associated Press. | The first Republican mass-meeting of the Presidential campaign in this city was held tonight in Cooper Union. The hall was packed and many could not get in. The hall was profusely decorated with American flags and on either side of the speakers' stand were German and Irish flags The audience went wild when Thomas C. Platt, Warner Miller and Chauncey M. Depew came in together. Platt was introduced as chairman and was received with great cheering. Mr. Platt said:

Our friends, the enemy, and our enemies claiming to be friends, manifested much anxiety over the lively contest at the last National Republican Convention between the friends of the different aspirants for the Presidential nomination. There is nothing to worry about. Benjamin Harrison stands today as the representative of the grand old Republican party, the bearer of the flag of protection, reciprocity and nonest money, and as such we pledge him a united party, unwavering loyalty and faith. Despite frantic efforts of cleveland, the Democratic party cannot go into this campaign under the flying banner of tariff reform. The Democratic convention at Chicago would have no such milk and water principles, so it substituted the tariff for revenue only plank. On that plank the Republican party it substituted the tariff for revenue only plank. On that plank the Republican party joins issue with the Democracy. Cleveland and Hill both agree that protection is a cheat, but neither of them dares to indorse absolute free trade; so they are both compelled to repudiate their platform and straddle the the issue.

The Republican party believes in honest money and no juggling with or debasing of the national currency. It wants the silver dollar the equal of the gold dollar, and the paper dollar backed by the honor of the Republic, a representative of value as precious as silver or gold. In the darkest hour this Nation ever saw, when gold was worth cious as silver or gold. In the darkesthour this Nation ever saw, when gold was worth 250, the Republican party, true to its principles, refused to compromise the Nation's honor by paying the interest on the public debt in greenbacks. What was the result? United States bonds became the gilt-edge investment of the civilized world. No greater financial crime has been attempted in this country than the Democratic endeavor to substitute issues of irresponsible State banks for our present national currency.

As to the so-called "Force bill," Democratic newspapers have persistently spread through their columns for a month past all sorts of incendiary appeals and bogus information regarding the alleged "Force bill." There never has been a "force bill" which was indorsed by the Republican party. The party, however, believes in a free ballot and fair count, and that we will have. We have fought for that right from Bull Run to Appomattox. We paid for that privilege $5.000.000 and over 1,000,000 precious lives, and in God's name we will fight for it as long as a single Republican remains alive within the limits of the American Union, be if in the State of Alabama orthe State of New York.

Platt closed with an earnest admonition to Republicans to organize throughout the city, State and land, and to help with all their might to get every Republican voter out on election day.

When the cheering which followed his address had subsided, Platt introduced Whitelaw Reid as the next Vice-As to the so-called "Force bill," Demohis address had subsided, Platt intro-duced Whitelaw Reid as the next Vice-President of the United States, and once more the audience broke out in en-thusiastic applause. Mr. Reid spoke breifly, saying in part:

Is the country to abandon its present prosperous security and recklessly venture out upon the sea of chance in tariff, reciprocity, banking, currency and shipping which the Chicago platform proposes. That depends upon whether the Republican party of the State of New York does its full duty and exerts its full strength for the next six weeks. For you will not forget that our opponents have carried the State for a Presidential candidate but three times in thirty-six years. It 1856 Fremont took away the electoral vote of New York from Buchanan by a plurality of 80.00. Never from that day to this have Nort took away the electron vote of New York from Buchanan by a plurality of 80, 000. Never from that day to this have the Democrats been able to regain those electoral votes, save when they had a popular leader of this State cas their candidate with united party behind them. Such leaders were Seymour and Tilden, and such another Cleveland was thought to be when first nominated for the Presidency. Yet he carried the State the first time by but 1047, and the next he was beaten by over 1000 votes by Benjamin Harrison. On that ratio, and under that same leader, what sort of majority against him ought New York to give this time? Six weeks of individual and united effort will be enough, if we only base our campaign on what we are going to do for ourselves, not on what we are going to do for dissentions of the enemy may do for us. Providence helps those who help themselves.

Platt next introduced ex-Senator Warner Miller, who spoke at some length. All differences of opinion in the Republican party, he declared, were ended when the Minneapolis convention declared its choice. Whatever differences have existed have passed the Republican party at length and reaway. He traced the achievements of the Republican party at length, and refuted Democratic arguments. Speaking of pensions he said that the Democrats were just now in favor of the veterans, and would continue to be until the 9th of Nouember.

There were loud calls for Depew, and the great spellbinder came to the front. He said he did not come tonight to make a speech, but for the purpose of convincing skeptical newspapers that

The anti-snappers had a long conference with the Democratic national committeemen. At the end of the session the anti-snappers had nothing to say, but at headquarters it was said the discussion was as to how to prepare a thorough organization of Democratic voters of the city of New York, together with such incidental demonstrations as might be necessary to arouse enthusiasm and stimulate them to greater activity. It was learned on the outside that the question of nominating a third ticket in the city was the principal one discussed. The committeemen could not be induced to give their assent, and the anti-snappers finally agreed to consult with their leaders. Another meeting will be held Friday.

The Chinese Question Again-A Little

A delegation was appointed to endeavor to induce the United States to enter into an agreement with En-gland. France and Germany to prevent the sale of ardent spirits and firearms in the New Hebrides.

It having been said in the council the other day that the United States Government had stood out of the international arrangement accepted by En gland and France for the prohibition of gland and France for the prohibition of the traffic in firearms and liquors with the people of the New Hebrides Islands, resolutions were adopted commenting rather severely upon such action. TERRE HAUTE (Ind.,) Sept. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] Six thousand people witnessed the record-breaking events at today's races. #### 1492-1892.

The day of days is nearing-October 21, 1892-the quadro-centennial anniversary of the discovery of America by immortal Christopher Columbus.

The Los Angeles Times has fixed upon this historic and glorious date for the issuance of a special illustrated Columbian Number, to consist of twenty-four pages (besides a four-page 'llustrated supplement,) descriptive of /Los Angees and Southern California.

LORDY! but don't San Diego swagger CABRILLO and his caravel have arriv'.

Event dog has his day. "Discovery'

This is the way they sing it in Jupiter, "By the soft silver light of five moons."

THE Democrats are reported to be stuck on Grover's epistle. We expected as much.

THAT letter leads to the conclusion that the Stuffed Prophet is trying to stuff the rest of us.

GROVER's letter knocks the theory of fish being good brain food higher than Mr. Gilderov's kite. It looks now as if John had concluded to come up to the captain's office and have his picture taken. PHILADELPHIA has an anti-trust sugar refinery, which is the same kind of sugar kept by our grocer-anti-trust. THERE certainly was no Bohemian club around or that alleged poet would PECK has had his day in court and makes out his case. Grover Cleffand had a barty, but vere ish dot party now? THE Mayor of St. Louis is about to be impeached for jagging. Another blow at the boasted freedom of the chivalric

Southron, be gad, sah! * THERE will be but one Democrat in the Maine Senate next winter, but that will be just one more than will reside in the White House after the 4th of March. BILL NYE in his most hilarious me ments was never so wildly funny as is Grover Cleveland in his letter of accept ance where he talks about old soldiers and pensions. This from Grover, mind you, who "slapped the dirty beggars in the face."

Appar is out at Shelbyville, Indiana. barbecue pit, and he is probably filling up with free fodder at a great rate. On occasions of this sort Adlai has no use for a substitute. How different, though. when war waged its wide desolation

Top calamity howlers of the Democ racy found real cause for a roar in the report of that man Peck. The further the thing is looked into the worse it appears for Cleve and Steve and the free trade fallacy. Protection protects, and Peck's report clinches the fact be yond all question.

THE anti-snappers are about to run a lecal ticket in New York in opposition to Tammany, as will be seen by referto this morning's dispatches. That boasted harmony in York State has gone a-glimmering and there will be carving to the heart when November comes around.

As we predicted Grover has found that tariff plank so full of splinters that he refuses to slide down it. Bu the joke of it all is that Henry Watterson excuses Grover for dodging the issue. The star-eyed Goddess of Reform must weep briny tears at th sight of a spectacle like this.

THE Oakland Times formerly spoke of it as "our boasted pavement." It now refers to it in tones of blood as "our roasted pavement," and calls upon the iconoclastic Republicans of Alameda county to square things or several different kinds of dire consequences will follow fast and follow faster. But we see no real opening for any roar of this sort. Does not the Oakland Times like its pavement well done?

THE NEWSPAPER MAN is the name of a new journal that has been brought out in San Francisco to fill that l. f. w. that is so frequently read about. Sands W. Foreman, an old-time Pacific Coast journalist, is its editor. The publication is beautifully printed and is full of gossip about newspaper people, bright sketches and other matter of interest to the craft. Each issue bears on its first page a portrait of some prominent Pacific Coast journalist, which greatly adds to its attractiveness. It deserves to succeed.

The Constitutional Amendments.

A Ventura correspondent rises to a point of order and suggests that the press of the State is not devoting enough attention to a discussion of the constitutional amendments to be voted upon at the November election. The point is well taken. Several of the amendments have been discussed by Times on various occasions, but they have not been taken up seriatum.

Our correspondent's position with reference to these several amendments is right in the main, Senate Constitutional Amendmen

No. 10, the chief object of which is to extend the session of the Legislature from sixty to 100 days, is of doubtful utility. It means a larger expense to the State and greater danger of mischief. Sixty days is time enough for the average California Legislature to do all of its legitimate business; if the illegitimate business could be eliminated it would be more than time enough.

Assembly Amendment No. 7, to pre vent municipalities and public bodies from incurring indebtedness beyond two years' income without a two-thirds vote of the taxpayers, is all right. It is a safeguard which may well be invoked. Senate Amendment No. 11, to employ the Lieutenant-Governor as an ex-officie examiner of public institutions, is a matter which should be debated fully It might be better, as our correspondent suggests, to have a non-partisan com mittee of investigation. The amendment providing for an election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people has already been discussed at length in these columns, and indorsed. The amendment providing an educa tional qualification for voters is a long stride in the direction of improving, purifying and dignifying the ballot, and should be adopted.

The San Francisco depot act is an open question. Our correspondent is opposed to it for reasons which seem justifiable enough on the surface. But it should be remembered that this authorizes only a loan to the Harbor Commissioners to improve property which belongs to the State. The loan is to be repaid in a few years from the revenues of the property. It seems a little sin-gular that the State should be called upon to build ferry houses and a depot for San Francisco, but as the State owns the water front it is hard to see now anybody else could be expected to furnish the money for this purpose.

The amendment inhibiting the contraction of "deficiency" indebtedness by State officers, except under the most thorough safeguards, is undoubtedly a good measure This is Assembly A ment No. 5.

THE TIMES will take occasion to publish a digest of the several amendments and enter upon a fuller discussion of

A Lie Against Cleveland "Natled." The Louisville Courier-Journal indignantly refutes the charge made by some of the third-party mischief-makers in Texas that more pensions were granted under Cleveland than during any other administration. The Louis ville paper is determined that Cleve chances in the South shall land's not be injured by any false representation of too great friendliness toward the Union veterans, and their families, and it declares that this Texas story is "one of the preposterous statements that proceeds from ignorance, and can be accepted only by men who will not keep informed concerning the course of public events."

The Courier-Journal then proceeds with much elaboration to put down the vile slander against its candidate, and declares that, "hext to the tariff message, the most notable public service rendered by Mr. Cleveland was the veto of the Dependent Pension Bill." This, Mr. Watterson's paper thinks, was a courageous and patriotic act, and a protest against the looting of the treasury under the pretence of patriotism.

Mr. Cleveland well knew that i arrayed against him the organization known as the Grand Army of the Republic, and there can be but little doubt that it was one of the most effective in the state of the most effective in the state of the most effective in the state of the finati was one of the most effective in-fluences leading to his defeat in 1888. Today all over the North the political influence of the Grand Army of the Republic is used in behalf of Mr. Harri-son against Mr. Cleveland. It is sur-prising, therefore, to hear that in the State of Texas people are listening to Third party demagogues, who stop at Third party demagogues, who stop at no misrepresentation and hesitate at no

Under the law of June 27, 1890, nearly 100,000 pensions were granted in the year ending June 30, 1891. The first year of Mr. Cleveland's ad-ministration, 35,767 pensions were

The third year of Mr. Harrison's administration, 156,486 pensions were granted.
During the four years, 1885-86-87-88, covering Mr. Cleveland's administration, 192,070 pensions were granted.
During one year of Mr. Harrison's administration, 156,486 pensions were granted.

During three years of the Harrison administration 275,041 pensions were granted. The average during Mr. Harrison's administration will be over 100,000, or more than double the average during the administration of Mr. Cleveland.

Thus laboriously and painfully the Courier-Journal puts down the "slander" that Cleveland was disposed to be too friendly to the Union veterans. It shows conclusively that he was only half as friendly as President Harrison has been. It might have gone further and said that, if Mr. Cleveland had been able to enforce his private sentiments entirely, no pensions would have bean granted at all.

Strange to say, here is an instance in which every Republican paper and every well-informed person in the counwill concede that the Courier try Journal has made out its case fully. The "campaign lie" that Cleveland was friendly to the old soldier is effectuall nailed. Certainly it must be a very ignorant class of people and those only in the far South who would ever have believed such a thing of him. third-party fabricators would know better than to go about the North and report that Cleveland was too friendly to the old soldiers; they know that they would get themselves laughed at. But it is among the people of the South, who used to believe that the Yankees had hoofs and horns, that these fellows are able to practice their deceit. They ought to be arrested for thus imposing on the over-ignorant and too credulous Southern "shovelry."

It is true that Mr. Cleveland, in his etter of acceptance, deals out a little high-flavored taffy to the Union veter ans, saying, in a general way, that "no complaint should be made of the amoun of public money paid those actually disabled or made dependent by reason of army service," but the people of the North know how to take such things. They can read between the lines. They Cleveland's record; they know what is due as a sop to the old soldier and that, in his case, it signifies nothing. It is as though Headsman Steven son should expatiate on the beauties of civil service reform, the while he "winked his other eye."

CHOLERA'S TERRORS

Origin and Ravages of the Asiatic Plague.

From Three Different Points It Now Threatens Invasion.

Its Fearfully Deadly Work in the Past Recalled.

York and Elsewhere-Fighting the Plague With Intelligence and Science,

Special Correspondence of The Times.
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Cholera, the dreaded Asiatic scourge, despite the Special Corresp fierce and unrelenting battle that has been waged against it for nearly a month past, has succeeded in gaining a foothold, a slight one but neverthele a foothold, in the metropolis, and from three points now threatens America with wholesale invasion. These three points are Hamburg, Antwerp and Havre. All three are famous seaport towns, Hamburg the greatest in Ger-many and the fourth in importance in the world. It is yearly visited by more than 9000 vessels and steamship and than 9000 vessels and steamship and packet lines send the wares of its merchants to all parts of the globe. Its capacious and picturesque harbor is always crowded with shipping, come and to go. Hamburg lies on the lower Elbe and has a population of 360,000, It was long a member of the Hauscatic League and a free city-until it oecame ah integral part of the German empire four or five years ago. Since 1870 the four or five years ago. Since 1870 the bulk of the foreign commerce of Ger-many has passed through Hamburg. many has passed through Hamburg, and its growth and prosperity have in many ways been phenomenal. The improvement of her docks and harbors has been conducted on a princely scale, and are subjects of pride to every Hamburger, but in the matter of an effective health organization, good drainage a wales and a subject of the subject of th fective health organization, good drainage, a wholesome water supply and a clean population, Hamburg is centuries behind the times and is now paying a heavy and deadly price for its thoughtlessness and shortcomings.

New York receives 90 per cent of the European immigration to the United States, and the greater part of this mighty stream come through the property of the property stream come through the property of the property stream come through the property of the mighty stream come through the property of the property this mighty stream comes through Ham this mighty stream comes through Hamburg. The immigrants who sail from Hamburg are in the main Germans and Russian and Polish Jews. Cholera has been present in Russia for two years past, and the famine that has prevailed there during that time has only served to strengthen its foothold. In August a number of Russian Jews, driven from home by the relegaless, persecutions of home by the relentless persecutions of the Czar's government, arrived at Hamburg to take passage for America. They brought, the cholera with them, and were isolated in a camp above the city and on the banks of the Elbe. The drainage of the camp emptied into the drainage of the camp emptied into the Eibe, from which Hamburg draws its water supply, and before the people of the endangered city knew even of its presence the cholera was epidemic among them. The coming of the plague found the municipal authorities of Hamburg wholly unprepared to stay its progress. There were, says a correspondent, no hospitals, no medical service, no ambutances, no nurses, no spondent, no hospitals, no medical service, no ambulantes, no nurses, no dead houses, no facilities for burying the dead, and the grisly and repellant scenes since enacted there beggar description. In six weeks fully 15,000 people have fallen victims to the plague in Hamburg. Of this number nearly half have fied, and at the present time, though the worst is now believed to be over, the daily death rate is still high.

ver, the daily death rate is still high. From Hamburg the cholera has spiead to Antwerp, Havre, Paris, Bremen, Amsterdam, Brussels and Rotterdam and has gained a firm foothold in each of the cities named, but, as previously stated, at Antwerp and Havre are the ones which, after Hamburg, present the gravest menace to the welare the ones which after Hamburg, present the gravest mehace to the welfare of the United States. Antwerp is the chief seaport of Belgium, and in its harbor are always to be found vessels from every country on the globe. Its streets however, are narrow and dirty; its system of drainage, if it can with truth be called a system, is wholly defective, and the city is burdened with a vast paper population, who live in a vast pauper population, who live in squalor and filth on the banks of the squalor and fifth on the banks of the river Schelde. The immigrants who sail from Antwerp to America, and they number many thousands yearly, are brought into close content with this content with the cholera is now prevalent, and infection is thus made easy. But infected immigrants are not the only danger with which Antwerp threatens us at the present time. The vast exports of Antwerp, which may bring with them the germs of cholera, are also a constant and se-rious menace. The measures taken to rious menace. The measures taken to repress the plague in Antwerp are very like those resorted to in Hamburg, and as a result the epidemic is said to be as a result the epidemic is said to be spreading daily. Havre, after Marseilles, the greatest seaport of France, is far better prepared than Hamburg and Antwerp to do successful battle with the cholera. The city stretches over a broad territory; its streets are wide and clean, there is no crowding of its population into cramped and unwholesome quarters, and its sanitary condition is almost persuant its assistance condition is almost persuant its sanitary condition is almost persuant in the condition in the condition is a condition in the condition is almost persuant in the condition is all the condition in t cramped and unwholesome quarters, and its sanitary condition is almost perfect. Havre is in every sense a modern city and one of the cleanest in the world. Thus far the cholera has been kept well in hand by the medical authorities of Havre. The most review. ities of Havre. The most serious menace which this city presents to America lies in the fact that it is the eaport of Paris, where the cholera is known to be raging, that coming from Paris to this cou pass through Havre, and that traveler pass through Havre, and that the greater part of Havre's immense trade is with American ports. On Wednesday, August On Wednesday, August 31, the cholera entered New York harbor and knocked loudly for admission. It came by the steamer Moravia of the Hamburg line, twenty-two of whose steamer was by the steamer Moravia of the Hamburg line, twenty-two of whose steerage passengers died of the plague while enroute. The coming of the cholera was not unexpected and it found the health officers of this city and port fully prepared to cope with its advance. Health Officer Jenkins at once ordered the Moravia to leave our arranting. The President Officer Jenkins at once ordered the Moravia to lower quarantine; the President issued a proclaimation declaring that all ships sailing from infected ports should be kept in quarantine for twenty days after their arrival in any port of this country, and the New York Board of Health issued rules for the prevention of the cholera. The Moravia was followed in quick succession by the Normannia, the or heath issued rules for the prevention of the cholera. The Moravia was followed in quick succession by the Normannia, the Rugia, the Scandia, and the Bohemia from Hamburg, and the Wyoming from Liverpool, all of which brought the plague with them, and it was seen that only an aggressive and unflagging camonly an aggressive and unflagging cam-paign could prevent the disease from gaining a firm foothold here. Prepara gaining a from foothold here. Preparations for such a campaign were at once begun. These preparations have now been completed and present details that are full of interest. When, a European steamer arrives at lower quarantine it is at once boarded by the Health Officer or one of his assistants, who has been dium height and erect and slender

The water in which they bathe is disinfected before it is dis bathe is disinfected before it is dis-charged into the bay. All of their food is cooked by steam. The hospital on Swinburne Island, where the cholera patients are now being cared for, con-tains accommodations for a large number and its appointments are very com-plete. The bodies of those who die are plete. at one burned in a crematory that has been built on the island.

To accommodate the overflow from Hoffman Island a large quarantine camp has been established on the Government reservation at Sandy Hook. This camp was completed in less than a week and can accommodate 12,000. The discan accommodate 12,000. The discipline of the camp is in charge of the Federal Marine Hospital Service, and it is guarded by Government marines. At the head of the medical corps is Dr. John Rauch of Chicago, a famous sanitarian. The sheds formerly used by the Central Railroad of New Jersey have been converted into barracks and a large number of new buildings have also been erected, including a diningroom, kitchen, store rooms and a hospital with accommodations for twenty people. Inhabitants of the camp are inspected twice a day, in the morning and in the afternoon. Suspected cases are at once isolated, and when cholera develops the yellow flag is holsted and are at once isolated, and when cholera develops the yellow flag is hoisted and the patient transferred to Swinburne Island. Passengers and their baggage are funigated as soon as they reach the camp. The period of detention varies, being governed by the port from which the passengers come and their general health, but in ordinary cases eight days is considered sufficient. The steamers Sandy Hook and Monmouth touch at the camp daily and deliver provisions. No one is permitted to enter or leave the camp without a pass, and the only communication with the outside world is by telegraph. The camp is lighted by eleccation with the outside world is by elec-graph. The camp is lighted by elec-tricity and everything possible has been done to make it pleasant and inhabitable. The expense of equipping this camp has been paid by Austin Corbin, and his prompt and generous action is deserv-ing of the warmest praise.

The cabin passengers of vessels arriving from infected ports are detained on the vessels themselves, the old war-ship New Hampshire and at Fire Island. The New Hampshire, hastily fitted up for this purpose, has accommodations for several hundred people. Fire Island, which is not an island at all, but the end of a long, narrow strip of land, between the ocean and the Great South Bay, about forty miles from this city, contains a large summer hotel and several cottages, with splendid accommodations for several hundred people, and has just been purchased by the State of New York for quarantining purposes for the sum of $210,000. Following the purchase of Fire Island, the baymen, who live thereabouts, objected to the landing of passengers, on the plea that it would ruin their trade in fish and oysters; the militia was called out to oppose them and for a time bloodshed was feared, but in the end the baymen ceased their opposition, and now several hundred detained passenshed was feared, but in the end the baymen ceased their opposition, and now several hundred detained passengers are comfortably enconced on the island. Just east of the Surf Hotel on the island is the grave of the steward of the Elizabeth, who tried to swim ashore with Margaret Fuller's child, and died in the attempt. There is a life-saving station on the Island and a Western Union signal tower, from which the arrival of all European vessels is the arrival of all European vessels telegraphed to the city. The sweeping quarantine against European ports now in force has brought three men into especial prominence. These men are Dr. William T. Jenkins, Health Officer of the port of New York; Dr. Walter Wyman, Supervising Surgeon-General of the United States marine hospital service, and Dr. John M. Byron of this city. Dr. Jenkins is M. Byron of this city. Dr. Jenkins is chief executive officer of the commischief executive officer of the commis-sion, appointed by the Governor of the State, which governs the quarantine of the port of New York. He is a native of Mississippi and about 40 years of age. He has held office only a short age. He has neit onice only a since time, but in the present emergency has proved himself a prompt, resolute and vigilant official. He has been subjected vigilant omcial. He has been subjected to much severe criticism, but this was to be expected, as his task is at best an arduous and unpleasant one. Surgeon-General Wyman has general charge of the Atlantic coast quarantine, and has proved himself in every way equal to the duties h is called upon to perform. He is a grad-uate of Amherst and the St. Louis Mediuate of Amherst and the St. Louis Medical College, and entered the marine hospital service in 1876. He is a man of wide and varied experience and a voluminous writer on medical subjects. Dr. Byron, though only 38 years old, is recognized as one of the most eminent bacteriologists. In the country. Aside from the stringent quarantine maintained in the harbor extra precautions are being taken in the city proper against the spread of the cholera. The City Board of Health is exercising all the resources at its command. Suspected cases are taken at once to the Willard Parker Hospital, where they are carefully isolated, while their homes are quarantined and disinfected without delay. A large floating hospital has also been fully equipped, and is now stationed in the East Riverready for an emergency. At Portland, Boston, Philidelphia, Baltumore and other Atlantic ports a rigid quarantine has been instituted and is being strenuously maintained, and the same is true of the Pacific Coast, where there is a possibility of the cholera entering the country from Siberia. On both coasts, the life Pacific Coast, where there is a possibility of the cholera entering the country from Siberia. On both coasts the life-saving crews have been instructed to be on the watch and to report any tessel that attempts to land its passengers without a proper permit. In Canada all passengers from infected ports are held at Grosse Island, forty miles from Quebec, for inspection and disinfection, and immigrants coming from fection, and immigrants coming from Canada into the United States are subcanada into the United States are sub-jected to a second inspection at differ-ent points on the frontier. Mexico has also declared a quarantine against ves-sels from infected European ports, so there is little prospect of the cholera creeping into the United States from that quarter.

The present danger vividly recalls

The present danger vividly recalls the great cholora epidemics of the past. Cholera has its origin in the delta of the River Ganges, in India. In 1764 it destroyed 30,000 people in Upper Hindoostan, and in 1817 it devastated India, Persia, Arabia, Asia Minor, Ceylon, Burmah, Malacca, Borneo, Celebra, China, the Philliping Islands. Ceylon, Burmah, Malacca, Borneo, Celebes, China, the Phillipine Islands, Madagascar and the east coast of Africa. In 1829 it ravaged Russia, and in 1831 and 1832 swept through Central Europe and France. In June, 1832, having in the meantime been epidemic in Quebec and Montreal, it appeared in New York, and spread quickly to other cities. Five thousand people died in New York aione. Sixteen years later it visited New Orleans, and during the following five years claimed many victims in other parts of the United States. In 1866 it again appeared in this city, having been brought by steamer from Havre, and brought by steamer from Havre, and several hundred died from it in a few weeks, but the health authorities, per-forming able services.

weeks, but the neath authorities, per-forming able services, were soon able to check its advance, and in a few months it had entirely disappeared. The various cities of the country were never better equipped than they are at the present time to do successful battle the present time to do successful battle with the cholera. The greatest danger of a spread of the plague, should it succeed in securing a firm footing here, lies in the foul and overcrowded slums of our great cities, where thousands of human beings, ignorant, vicious and depraved, swarm like rats in a rat-hole, and by their habits and modes of life daily invite disease. New York city has 800,000 such people, and Boston has 800,000 such people, and Boston and by their habits and modes of life daily invite disease. New York city has 800,000 such people, and Boston, Chicago, and other large cities have them in equal proportion. They are the darkest and most menacing cloud in a threatening horizon, a cloud that must make even the most hopeful pause and tremble. Cholera once epidemic among this element, and the wisest and most enlightened precation will not nost enlightened precation prevent them from dying in swarms, like vermin by the roadside.

GERMAN CATHOLICS.

Excited Discussions at the Congress at Newark.

Cahensiyism, the School Question and the Pope's Temporal Power the Theme Dwelt Upon in Speeches and Resolutions.

By Telegraph to The Times.

NEWARK (N. J.,) Sept. 28.—[By the Associated Press.] The German Catholic Congress continued its sessions today. The speech made last night by Dr. Schroeder, demanding restoration of the temporal power of the Pope, and declaring that no compromise should be made with the so-called liberal element on Cahenslevism, caused a sensa tion. The speech was severely criticised, many believing it will cause dissension in the church, especially among Irish Catholics.

"We approve what St. Peter approved; we recommend what he recom-mended; we condemn what he condemned, and tolerate what he tolerated" were the declarations in resolutions speaking of the school resolutions speaking of the school question at the close of the meeting of the convention tonight. Caledonia Park Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. Over 6000 persons were there. The "Star Spangled Banner" was sung in German by 400 parochial children. Then the resolutions were read by Rev. M. Fuerber of St. Louis. They declare in part:

With proverbial gratitude we hear the energetic utterances of many of our right reverend bishops who with great emphasis demand the establishing and maintaining of parochial schools. We protest most emphatically against any attempt on the part of the State to infringe by any law the right of education. Therefore, we feall upon all our Catholic fellow-citizens to give their votes to only such candidates as take the correct stand on the school question.

With the fullest submission to the desire with the fullest submission to the desire of our holy church, the supreme pontiff and bishops placed over us, we not only renounce all secret societies strictly forbidden under the penalty of excommunication, but also those which our ecclesiastical superiors have declared endanger good morals or the Catholic religion. We wish to direct you to such societies as are fully approved by our ecclesiastical superiors.

The resolutions hail with delight the approaching fiftieth anniversary of the consecration of the Pope as a bishop, and extend to him the assurance of the and extend to him the assurance of the deepest reverence, perfect obedience and unwavering allegiance. They renew the demand of the last congress for full freedom and independence of the holy see by restoration of the temporal sovereignty of the Pope, and say:

As free American citizens we will not tolerate any interference with the free expression of our views upon this extremely important church matter. The false supposition that it is opportune to discuss openly the Roman question in our country can only be explained as pittable deception or want of courage in showing fearlessly our truly Catholic convictions. Rome, as the natural seat of the papacy, as the metropolis of the Catholic world, belongs to the popes, who moreover are possessed of the rights of sovereignty acquired in justice and sealed by solemn contracts for the welfare of Italy, Europe and the whole world as benefactors of mankind. With confidence we leave it to Divine Providence by what means the restoration of papal independence can be brought about by secular power, and, in the meantime, we never cease to courageously sustain the holy father.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

An Indiana Man is Saved by a Discovery.

A remarkable case has occurred in our territory. J. N. Berry, a man about thirty years of age, was going down rapidly. He tried physician after physician, patent medicines, home receipts—in fact, everything. He went to a noted sanitarium and returned no better. We all thought he was dying with consumption, and that only a few weeks of life were left for him.

He commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and at the same time commenced to mend. He has used about two dozen bottles, and is still using it. He has gained in weight, color and strength, and is able to do light work. It is just such a case as we should have listened to rather suspiciously, but when we see it, we must believe it.

It has trebled our sales of "Golden Medical Discovery." JOHN HACKETT & SOR, Druggists, Roanoke, Ind.

PENING days in the millinery department Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Our entire line of new French novelties, together with a large lot of our artistic styles, will be on exhibition. The public is cordially invited to examine all the new ideas in our famous millinery department. Stylish millinery at a moderate price has made our millinery department famous. Opening days and circus days happen together. Today, stylish jackets $2.50, $3.50 and $5.00; a midweek special sales day to benefit the out-of-town trade. Our cloak department shows the best value you ever saw at $8, $10, $12 and $15. When it comes to stylish, well-made goods, there is no house in all California who can hold a candle to the variety we now exhibit. Take a look through our millinery room, and also at the same time see what we have on exhibition in our big cloak room. The 50c line of dress goods is still drawing larger crowds; it is the big 50c line of the city; not a few pieces at 50c a yard, but hundreds of pieces, and hundreds of styles to show you. Storm serges; they are the big sellers of the season in all grades; navy blue storm serges. There is a positive scarcity of navy blue dress goods already. Tan and blacks as well as the mode shades, are selling well. Anything in cloth effects for tailor-made suits are unusually good. We have the largest stock we have ever carried in cloths of all grades. The black goods department is very large; most elegant styles and moderate prices prevail. We give samples freely and show goods with the greatest freedom whether you wish to purchase or not. Extra care is taken to serve all faithfully and well. Saturday night closing is one of the great features of this business. Three hours extra time to every employe makes fifteen extra days in each year we give outright for their benefit. Adding to this an extra week's vacation to every employee on full pay, makes full three weeks more than any other house allows. This is of vast benefit to their health and happiness, and at the same time the trade of the house is showing the largest gains ever made by a dry goods house in this city.

Removal Clearance Sale

We will occupy the new Bicknell Block on Broadway, opposite the City Hall, about November 1st, with a new line of goods. We intend to close out our present stock before moving and will name prices that will sell the goods.

Wonderful::Cures DR. WONG:

世毒物染精 the pulse and excellent remedles are great blessings to the world."

The above are two fac similes of many REWARDS OF MERIT or DIPLOMAS of PROFESSIONAL SKILL which have from time to time been awarded to the CELEBRATED CHINESS PHYSICIAN, DR. WONG, for his superior medical abilities and curative powers.

It has long been customary among the Chinese people when one becomes sick and when repeated attempts to cure him have failed, and he is perhaps given up to die, if, after having been taken to an eminent physician, he be cured of his disease—the cured, too in addition to the regular fee for, professional services rendered, makes the physician a present as a token of gratitude for his restoration to health and the prolongation of his life. This present consists usually of a broad plank, presenting much the appearance of a sign-board, filled with characters entirely meaningless to the average English scholar, but full of meaning to the successful physician and his friends.

It is a motto which highly compliments the physician for his great skill in effecting a cure of the disease which once afflicted the donor.

It is not an uncommon thing to see a great number of these COMPLIMENTARY DIPLOMAS adorning the office or his characters are the physicians in their native country, and indeed a number of the most successful on this country are the happy possessors of a few of these high tokens of very succession medical ability.

Fine and Fierce Writin'. [Oakland Times.]

Sleuth Burke must be a tough citizen if any relience can be placed on the estimate of his character as depicted by the Californian of Bakersfield. That paper describes him as "an avenger of blood"—a kill-a-man-and-cut-a-notch-in-the-stock-of-his-gun sort of detective—one of the kind that on bended knee—and with hand uplifted vows eternal vengeance against the cowards who murdered his friend. The Californian says that "he has no fear and that the thought of his murdered friend, Vic-Wilson, while moving him to more desperate efforts, will make him all the cooler in the white heat of conflict." That's the kind of a man we like to read about. We don't approve of "gun fighters" who lie down behind rocks after their friends have been killed and let the murderers escape. We disapprove "a whole lot" of sleuths who come back to town blowing about the bandits they shot at and didn't "fetch." We are naturally suspiclous of "blood paper describes him as "an avenger of bandits they shot at and didn't "fetch." We are naturally suspicious of "blood avengers" who leave "blood on the corn leaves," but can show no empty cartridge shells behind the rocks from which they fought the murderers of their friend. But Sleuth Burke is not this kind of bandit chaser, and the doubts which Allan Kelly, the Examiner's correspondent "at the front," casts upon his courage and veracity affects our judgment regarding this great detective not a little bit. As regards Detective Smith—but that's another story.

The Last Roll Call.

The figure begins to contract, to shrivel, as it were. The shoulders bend and the chest grows hollow. Pains—persistent shoots and twinges more or less intermittent for years—can no longer be ignored. The old fellow growls and grumbles, swears a little, perhaps, and wonders why it takes so much more effort than it used to do anything at all and what has become of his spring and elasticity?

It was for the country, and he had them discounted, no matter what the rate, and now they are falling due and have been drawing big interest.

Tearing It Down.

Work has been begun on the demolition of the handsome three-story building occupied by the Citizens' Bank, on the corner of Spring and Third streets. Several weeks ago, when The Times first announced that Mr. Stimson of Chicago had purchased this huliding and intended to tear it down to make room for the mammoth block he is to erect on that corner, many people could not believe that so handsome a house was doomed in a city where there are so many rookeries and stanties that could be better spared. As stated then, there seems to be nothing that can bar the Citizens' Bank building must go.

the plasmic sap, while the others exist chiefly in solution in the cell sap. The yellow pigment forms an insoluble compound with fatty matters, and is termed lipochrome. Orange isoformed by a denser deposit of the yellow and the color in the rind of an orange is identical with that found in many flowers. The red in flowers is a single pigment, soluble in water and decolorized by alcohol, but capable of being restored by the addition of acids. Lipochrome combined with this red pigment produces the scarlets and red of poppies and of the hips of hawthorns, but the varying intensity of red roses, carnations, peonies and other flowers depends on the presence of a greater or less quantity of acids. The blue and violet colors are also decolorized by alcohol, but reddened by acids. Florists have already succeeded in producing a very large scale of unusual colors in flowers, and there seems to be very good grounds for believing that it is possible so to manipulate nature that she will produce blossoms of every conceivable tint and hue.

Great Republican Mass-meeting Next Week-Annual Y.M.C.A. Gathering. Local Items Briefly Summed Up-Personals.

The semi-annual meeting of the Los Angeles Presbytery met on Tuesday evening in the First Presbyterian Church of Pasadena, and was called to order by the outgoing moderator, Rev. Dr. Ghichester. After the usual devotional exercises, Rev. Dr. Chichester preached a very interesting discourse from Collossians on the theme "Hid with Christ in God."

After the sermon, Rev. Mr. Hartley of Riverside was unanimously elected moderator for the next six months. The semi-annual meeting of the Los An

The usual routine business was then taken up.

Rev. David M. Steward and Rev. Mr. Howard were received as members of the presbytery on presenting letters from the respective presbyteries with which they have been associated. Rev. Mr. Howard, as is well known, was unanimously called in July last by the board of elders and trustees of the First Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles to be its pastor. The call was read in presbytery and was accepted by Rev. Mr. Howard, and the First Church is to be congratulated in obtaining the services of this live young man.

Mr. Herrjott and Jadge McKinley, of the First Church, made pointed and interesting statements of the unitedness, earnestness and heartness with which the call of Rev. Mr. Howard deeply touched the presbytery.

The next business was the reports of the commissioners to the general assembly.

These reports by Revs. Parker, Newell and Hartley, and by Dr. Craig, M. D., were short, spicy and satisfactory.

The reports on church erection by Rev. Mr. Young of Boyle Heights; on Sunday schools, by Rev. Mr. Johnson; and on church education, by Rev. Dr. Carrier were all timely and full of interest.

The presbytery at noon adjourned to the spacious pariors of the church, where a most excellent lunch had been prepared by the Presbyterian ladies of Pasadena. Ample justice was done by the clericals and their wives to the appetizing viands spread ha abundance before them.

When the afternoon session was inaugurated Rev. Mr. Thompson of the American Sabbath Union addressed the presbytery. Then there was a series of interesting little speeches and reports from various members of the Presbytery in regard to the spiritual and temporal condition of the various churches in the six southern counties.

were satisfactory and encouraging, showing that a most excellent work has been accomplished during the past year, some idea of which may be obtained by a perusal of the following extracts from the report of the general secretary, George Taylor.

The most important work of the association and around which all other phases custer is the religious work. This has been carried forward with great earnestness by the devotional committee. The Sunday afternoon gospel meetings have been well attended and have been reasons of great spiritual benefit. The total attendance was 2015, an increase of 25 per cent, over that of the previous year. The committee on visitation of the sick accomplished much in its field. Altogether 335 visits were made and eighty-two watchers furnished at night for those who have needed such attention, an increase of 8 per cent, over the work of have generously donated their services to those without means. Several conversions have been made at the bedside of the sick. The association has assisted at five funerals of voung men who have died here, several of whom were far away from relatives and friends. Several men have been assisted in obtaining employment by the employment department. The social and literary department provided an instructive course of lectures, and two social receptions were given by the ladles. The Ladies' Central Committee aided materially in contributing to the pleasure of all social gatherings. They also accomplished much in the way of raising money by the dinners that were given early in the year. The members are now hard at work, making arrangements to entertain the members of the State convention. The reading-room is an attractive place for young men. Bestleta a small library it is members of the State convention. The reading-room is an attractive place for young men. Besides a small library, it is supplied with twenty-two daily and weekly papers, three monthly magazines and numerous association pamphlets. The register shows an attendance of 6800, one-third greater than that of the previous year. Reference was made to the coming State con-ention and the important bearing it will have on the community in general. In concluding, thanks were extended to THE TIMES for favors shown the association.

The report of the president of the association, Dr. F. Grinnell, was an interesting paper, or which lack of space forbids a synopsis. The election of officers was next proceeded with. The old board of directors, who have so faithfully looked after the association's interests, was reelected as follows: Dr. F. Grinnell, president; Milford Fish, vice-president; P. M. Green, treasurer; E. A. Walker, A. J. Wallace, Walter Graves, Dr. J. R. Townsend. The delegates elected for the State convention to be held on October 12-16 are as follows: W. N. Campbell, W. M. Hagadorn, Milford Fish, J. W. Camper, Austin Munger, Charles I. Hall, H. Holbrook, W. T. Hayhurst, Aaron Roberts, W. T. Kirk, Walter Graves, John W. Nuhrenberger, Dr. J. R. Townsend, John H. Coe, Dr. F. Grinnell and George Taylor. At the close of the business esssion Rev. O. D. Crawford delivered an able address, taking for his topics the initial letters of the association; Y.—Yearning for souls; M.—Mental and muscular movement; C.—Christian courage; A.—Aggressive activity.

A REPUBLICAN RALLY.

The Harrison Republican Club held a regular weekly meeting Tuesday evening at the City Hall, which was presided over by J. A. Buchanan in his official capacity.

M. H. Weight made a few pertinent remarks, urging the importance of increased activity and zeal in campaign work. The Executive Committee, of which Mr. Weight was made a member, reported progress in the matter of erecting an outdoor stand for mass-meeting purposes, Final arrangements have not been completed, but the stand will be provided in due time.

The announcement was received with great gratification that on next Tuesday evening Hon. William Williams, Hervey Lindley and Maj. George E. Gard will address a public meeting here. Such an array of oratorical talent will certainly stirup plenty of political entinesism, which has, so far, been lacking. The club will spare no pains to make the affair a big success, and it behooves every Republican to take a personal interest in the matter by turning out and whooping things up.

Rory stock now went up, selling for $10 against Nutford at $6. Nutford led, passing the quarter in 34% and the half in 1:10%. Nellie I was not driven the last heat, as she had lost three previous heats.

The fourth and last race was trotting for colls, two year-olds, for stakes, amounting to about $70. The starters were Gifford's Alta Reina and Kelly's Contentor. Alta Reina led, making the quarter in 40%, the half in 1:24%, the three-quarters in 2:06, and the heat in 2:44%. Contentor broke badly, but withal came under the wire but half a length behind the winner. Alta Reina trotted the heat without a skip. In the second heat Murray nodded for the word on the first effort as he sent Alta Reina off on a 2:40 gait. The quarter was reached in 40 and the half in 1:21. On the upper turn alta Reina went off her feet, allowing Contentor to pass the three-quarter mark in 2:90. The mare soon got her head and at once set her head for first money. She made a noble effort, leaving Contentor on the run full two lengths in the rear as she passed under the wire. McKinney arrived yesterday, looking to be in the pink of condition for his coming contest with Silkwood. The Southern Pacific Will Gobble the Pollasky Road.

The Santa Fe Depot-Preachers Who Appreciate Pavors-Excursion California-General and Local Notes.

A dispatch from Chicago yesterday brought information that the Santa Fé Company has made arrangements to put on a new fast train to California about October 15, which shall shorten transcontinental time about twelve hours. This train will be made up of a baggage car, dining car and three sleepers, all of the Pullman pattern and vestibuled. Two of the sleepers will be reserved for Southern California and one for San Francisco. The inauguration of train service like this "California special" has long been urged by the officials at this end of the system, and will do much to popularize travel to this State.

THE GOVERNOR FLIES TO SAN DIEGO. Gov. Markham was to have arrived from Pasadena yesterday morning in time to catch the special train to San Diego at 7 o'clock, but did not arrivehere until 8:50, fully half an hour after the regular train had gone. As his presence at the Discovery day celebration was imperative a special train was made up for him and a few friends who were with him, leaving this city at 9 o'clock and making the Fun to San Diego in three hours and a half. Gov. Markham was to have arrived CHANGED SOUTHERN PACIFIC TRAIN SERVICE. Next Saturday the Southern Pacific Company will put in effect its winter time schedule to the beaches. 9:20 p.m. train heretofore leaving daily will be discontinued, as will also the train leaving Santa Monica daily at the train leaving Santa Monica daily at 8:00 p.m. The Sunday specials leaving Los Angeles at 8:30 and 9:00 a.m. will also be discontinued. The 9:30 and the 1:17 trains on Sundays will run through to Santa Monica Cañon as heretofore. Owing to the discontinuance of the steamers to Catalina Island, the popular "fish train" heretofore leaving Los Angeles at 8:25 a.m., on Sundays, will be discontinued, as will also the returning train leaving San Personnel. also the returning train leaving San Pedro at 6:45 p.m.

GOV. TORRES AT REDONDO. Gov. Torres and his staff of Lower California, accompanied by the Mexican regimental band, will visit Redondo next Sunday. General Passenger Agent Hynes, of the Southern California road, who is now in San Diego, has arranged for a grand concert to be given by this excellent band at Redondo during this visit, and many people will be thus en-abled to hear it.

TERMINAL TRAIN OFF THE TRACK. The Terminal Company's train from Monrovia, due to arrive here at 4:50 vesterday afternoon, was derailed near Arcadia, the engine and baggage car going off the track. No damage was done beyond causing some inconvenience to passengers and annoyance to the company.

JUST WHAT WAS EXPECTED. A dispatch from Fresno says: "C. P. Huntington and his nephew, H. E. Huntington, were in Fresno this morn-Huntington, were in Fresno this morning, and in company with Marcus Pollasky and Division Superintendent Frasier of the Southern Pacific Railroad took a trip over the San Joaquin Valley Railroad. The object of the visit of Messrs. Huntington is to look over the San Joaquin Railroad with the view of purchasing it from Mr. Pollasky. Mr. Huntington recently stated in an interview that he did not consider a road from this city to Monterey would pay. He would not take the road as a gift if he had to operate it.

WILL FILL THE GAP.

An Associated Press dispatch from San Francisco says: It will be good news to people of Santa Barbara and San Francisco says: It will be good news to people of Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties to learn that C. P. Huntington has decided to push the work of filling in the gap on the Coast division between Santa Margarita and Ellwood. It has been about a year now since the people of those counties procured for him the free right-of-way for 125 miles between the points already mentioned on condition that he commence construction within sixty day thereafter. He did as he agreed at that time by having men arrange all the preliminary work required before beginning the construction of tunnels between Santa Margarita and the town of San Luis Obispo. These preliminary works having been finished, as large a force of men as can be used will be immediately put at work on tunnels. In speaking on the subject today Mr. Huntington said: "We want to give that section of the State an outlet. They kept their promise to us in procuring for the company a free right-of-way, and we will keep our promise by building the road. There is some very heavy work to be done in the way of constructing tunnels immediately south of Santa Margarita, and we will commence on that first."

Passenger officials of the Southern California road estimate that on Mon-day, Tuesday and Wednesday their trains carried fully 30,000 people to San Diego. The Methodist conference in session at San Diego passed resolutions thank-ing the Southern California Railroad Company for numerous favors extended. It appears that some preachers appre-ciate their half-fare permits.

Among the officials of the Southern California road at San Diego, helping to handle the crowds, are General Pas-senger Agent Hynes, Superintendent Beamer, Trainmaster Hibbard, Passen-ger Agent Tincher and City Ticket Agent Magee.

There seems to be no doubt that the new Santa Fé depot is a sure go. According to the approved plans the structure will be 300 feet long and have a shed extending over five tracks. It will combine many of the most modern features of railroad depot architecture.

LADIES.

LADIES,

We wish to call attention to an article that has in the year past given perfect satisfaction to the many who have used it, and by their testimony been proven that Watson's Peerless Polish will not crack or injure the finest shoe any ledy may wear. The manufacturers of different polishes claim there is nothing injurious to leather in their dressings. If so is it not strange that they used to hide impurities in cheap scap? Their claim is not consistent as long as they do this. Peerless Shoe Polish needs no perfume to hide anything used in its manufacture. It contains no acid, alcohol or ammonia. All we ask is an impartial trial according to directions, and we know you will use no other. Please ask your dealer for Watson's Peerless Polish, and take no other. #### THE AMENDMENTS.

Several Very Important Questions

To Be Voted on at the Next Elec

Which, as Yet, Have Not Been Dis-

Correspondent Thinks They Should Be Treated-The Pros

VENTURA (Cal.,) Sept. 28.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] How many readers of THE TIMES know what is the State Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10? How many know that it is to be voted on at the coming election on November 8? How many know that there are three Senate and two Assem-bly amendments to be voted on at this election? Doubtless one-third of the voters do not even know the subjects of these amendments.

What are we going to do about it?
Will the eloquent orators of the old parties inform the people concerning the meaning and intent of these amendments? Oh, no! They are too busy discussing the tweedle-dee and tweedle discussing the tweedle-dee and tweedle-dum of tariff. Will the reform party expounders instruct their congregations on these vital issues before us? No! They see only their own pet schemes of reformation and have but a single eye for their end.

Well, what are we going to do about it? Use the channel through which true education reaches the common people, the newspaper, and instruct them how to vote.

It is surprising and alarming to see the indifference with which the campaign speakers and newspapers in general have treated these very important questions, which are to be decided in this State on November 8.

Let us examine the first question to this State on November 8.

Let us examine the first question to be voted upon. It is the Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 10. Its main object is to extend the session of the State Legislature forty days, making it 100 days instead of sixty. Now, it a voter wishes to give our Legislature forty days more to revel in the capital festivities and fairly reek with infamies, like our last legislative session, the vote will be "yes" for that amendment. If you wish to economize in government expenses; wish our representatives to understand that they are sent to the capital to attend to busiare sent to the capital to attend to business, and that two months is sufficient ness, and that two months is sufficient time to perform these duties, vote "no." The next question to be voted upon is the Assembly amendment No. 7, which reads that no city, town, township, board of education or school district shall incur any indebtedness exceeding the year's income without the consent of two-thirds of the qualified concerned electors. This is a plain and wise business proposition, and will doubtless be carried.

Senate Amendment No. 11 provides that the Lieutenant-Governor shall, when the Senate is not in session, visit all the State institutions, prisons, reformatory schools, asylums and other institutions supported in whole or part by the State make careful avaninations. by the State, make careful examination by the State, make careful examinations of the manner in which the appropriations for the support of such institutions have been expended. Now, what kind of a report would you expect from a strictly, partisan office-holder, visiting State institutions managed by strictly partisan superintendents of like affiliation? Would it not be better to have a non-partisan committee do this ex-tion? Would it not be better to have a non-partisan committee do this extremely necessary investigation? Do you want to aid the chances for further fraud in these State institutions? If so, vote "ves" for this amendment.

Assembly Amendment No. 5 limits the appropriation of money, except the general appropriation bill and the deficiency bill, for any but a single and certain purpose; limits the power of any State officer to incur any deficiency except in case of actual necessity, and then only upon the written authority, first obtained, of the Governor. Secretary of State and Attorney-General. Any deficiency incurred in violation of this provision shall be void and the provision shall be void and the the same propriate money to pay the same. These are wise provisions to regulate that much abused power of appropriation. Stamp that question after the

The Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 14 reduces the required number of inhabitants from 100,000 to 3500 necessary before cities can obtain a charter. This amendment will 3500 necessary before cities can obtain a charter. This amendment will doubtless be carried.

And these are not the only questions which need the attention of voters in this State. Immediately following the amendments are four very important other matters to be decided. The first is for refunding the State debt. By a other matters to be decided. The first is for refunding the State debt. By a heavy taxation for a few years the debt could be paid off. If the taxes are not increased the debt will draw a high rate of interest and be a burden for many years. Each voter must settle the question individually.

Then, will you vote for or against the San Francisco depot act? This question has perhaps been the most widely discussed of all here mentioned. But what right has San Francisco to claim tribute from the whole State? Is she not able to provide for herself? Why not apply for a breakwater at Santa Monica? That necessity would more apt be a public benefactor and Santa Monica? That necessity would more apt be a public benefactor and not controlled by the great Pacific octopus, the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, as the San Francisco depot promises to be.

How important is the next proposition to be voted upon, which reads, for or against an educational qualification requiring every voter to be able to write his own name and read any section of the constitution in the English write his own name and read any section of the constitution in the English language. Here, without doubt, is one of the greatest reforms of our age, and it has hardly been mentioned, so far, in this campaign. Herein lies the prevention of many an election fraud, for the illiterate herd of voters will then no longer havnt the polis on election day, and the political bosses and wire-poliers will be thrown out of employment, for they will not find sufficient followers among the educated who can be bought for a farthing, and therefore the honest voter willchave a chance to carry the election. How can a man vote intelligently if he cannot read or write even his own name? If you are a write even his own name? If you are a true-hearted, patriotic American citizen; if you seek the welfare of your home and native land; if you desire an honest ballot and a fair count; if you believe in upholding the American Constitution, vote "Yes" on this question.

And last, but not least, is the question of the day.

of election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people. There seems to be such an overwhelming sen-timent in favor of this proposition that it is hardly necessary to discuss it. The open and notorious use of Stanford's sack at the last Senatorial election has caused such a sense of repugnance to rise in the breast of the intelligent voter that all will undoubtedly vote "yes" on this question.

voter that all will undoubtedly vote "yes" on this question.

Don't be carried away by the firey flames of eloquence of the campaign orators on the tariff and be led to think that is the only live issue before the American voter today; nor by the eloquent eulogies of their respective candidates, but consider these questions and all others well before voting.

If you have not already, obtain as and all others well before voting.

If you have not already, obtain as soon as possible a book of instruction on the Australian ballot system from your County Clerk and read carefully every section, so that you can go to the polis and vote intelligently.

This is a campaign of education. Every voter is feeling his individual responsibility, party lines are becoming sponsibility, party lines are becoming terribly mixed (almost lost in some cases) and the country seems to feel the underground swell of a general reform wave, from whence is still uncertair. R. GARNER CURRAN.

Sacred scripture contains many words But none are more com forting, when the mind is absorbed in solemn scrutiny of the acts of our lives than the words of the prophet Ezekiel, which assure us that the wrath of God is not everlasting and that the sinner can obtain the mercy which he has forfeited through means of a voluntary return to righteousness. For thus speaks the Lord through Ezekiel the prophet: "And when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed and doeth that which is lawcommitted and doeth that which is law-ful and right he shall save his soul alive. Because he considereth and turneth away from all his transgres-sion that he hath committed he shall-surely live; he shall not die." (Ezekiel, 27, 28.)

These sublime words of the prophet suffice to carry conviction to the disturbed spirit. And yet there are ever so many whose faith in God is so very weak and whose reasoning powers seek other modes of teaching.

Yes, they even question the possibility of atoning for the past life of sin by repentance and prospective resolutions.

They say, "Before God there is no forgetfulness; can then a firm resolve

In dealing with minds such as these—minds which doubt the power of penitence to cancel guilt and wonder how such a power can be in accordance with divine justice—it will not be amiss to narrate a parable penned by a great rabbi of old:

A king had an only son whom he loved dearly. He was very anxious that his child should during his lifetime derive some enjoyment from princely patrimony which one day he would inherit. The parent felt that to enjoy one must first deserve.

He, therefore, sent his son away from Long they traveled through several climes; and wherever they roamed, the old courhseller was constantly reminding his royal pupil that the object of the journey was not for mere pleasure, but to fit him for a throne in the distant land which his father ruled, and that no temptation should make him forget his dignity. The prince, however, gave a more ready ear to his less harsh companion. "It is well to forget home sometimes," said the more indulgent adviser; "the present is the only period of enjoyment." The prince, beguiled by the charmer, lent him a willing ear, and giving unbridled licence to his inclinations, soon became the slave of his unscrupulous adviser.

The father heard with pain of the prince's conduct, of his forgetfulness of princely dignity, and of the lavish manner in which he had hitherto expended the funds with which he had supplied him. But the king reasoned with him.

the funds with which he had supplied the funds with which he had supplied him. But the king reasoned with himself thus: "If my child has forgotten his duty, I cannot forget my love for him and that he is still my child, cherished, though undeserving. The young companion whom I sent with him was necessary to beguile the tedium of the inverse." necessary to beguile the tedium of the journey, and I must make allowances, for I myself appointed him to his post. I will forgive much," thought the father, "if my child will not wholly forsake his aged guide, and if he will ultimately incline to his counsel."

At last the travelers turned homeward. Once more they looked upon those well-known fields which lay near the high place and home of the wines.

those well-known fields which lay near the birth-place and home of the prince. Then it was that the prince recollected with misglving and shame mitary an act of folly which he had committed despite the advice of his sage friend. "It is useless to regret the past now," said the youthful companion; "who would be a coward?" And the prince again agreed with him. At length, the travelers are a coward?" And the prince again agreed with him. At length, the travelers arrived at the boundary of the palace grounds, round which flowed a river which required to be traversed before they could reach their home. A ferryman stood in his boat near the shore. The toll was small. The ferryman was ugly and frightful to the sight.

The young and gay companion, fearing now to face the king, sought to divert the prince from passing the river, so he said to the prince. "Why give your money to you grim and offensive ferryman, who may perhaps out of spite, hatred, or malice, deceive us and drown us? Rather cast your sequins into the river and heap them up into a causeway, over which you may pass into the river and heap them up into a causeway, over which you may pass dry shod." The aged adviser pointed out the folly and madness of this proposal, and showed the prince that it would be a hopeless task to attempt to make a bridge with such insufficient materials. He also added that if all the money was lost in the endeavor, and the river still flowed on it would be and the river still flowed on, it would be impossible to reach home, for the ferry man would not trust even a prince if he

If in dismay. "What?" exclaimed the gay companion, "would you give way now? Cast it in the river, though it be your last." But the sage counsellor grasped the prince's arm, begged him to think of the amount of gold and silver already lying at the bottom of the stream which still rushed on deep and sileut as before, heedless of the little heap of coins accumulated in its bed, and he entreated him not to cast away his last chance, and give up wholly his father's love and his royal patrimony.

At these words the prince relented,

Eight Plans on How Cleveland Could Have Been Beaten.

Seven Significant Conclusions Drawn by the Field Marshal.

Control-The Defeat of the Democratic Party a Public Necessity.

Special Correspondence of The Times.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 .- From week to week it is my purpose to bear testimony to the truth precisely as it appears. It was a close question at Chicago whether Grover Cleveland could be nominated. The general im pression is that there never was a chance for any other result. History may be written that way, but it will not contain the facts that are among the most important and ought to be the most instructive. I think it very likely Cleveland could have been beaten

The Governor was of the judgment that the Bourke Cock of the judgment that the Bourke Cock-ran appeal to the convention would amount simply to damaging the candi-date; but that a square bolt would pre-vent the nomination of Cleveland. Sickles would have made the bolting speech, and led the way out on his crutches.

Capital has this year felt that there were many wild follies afloat in the country—socialistic notions verging upon nihilism, which is anarchical destruction. In the Democratic end of Wall street Mr. Cleveland is held to be the strong and safe man. the strong and safe man. He has re-sisted the headlong urgency of the gathered follies of a thousand years in finance.

The capitalistic Democracy of New York have friends upon whom they call for men and money in political warfare in Baltimore, Philadelphia and Boston. with a sprinkling in Connecticut and

New Jersey.

Taking these business men, who hold the results of success in their hands, aggregating enormous figures, and a few hundred thousand dollars invested in what we may call Government securities, is very easily within their ability; and when it is doled out with every pretense, of poverty it goes a great way. The Democratic party feels great way. The Democratic party feels the hundreds of millions of capital that plunges in its name into Presidential campaigns from the top of the head to the toes. This force was never so alert and so deftly managed as at Chicago, and the whole are referred. and the whole array of the ex-office holders of Cleveland moved as one man in its support. The country has be full of talk of Whitney, and he has be celebrated as the necromancer of the convention. He personified capital and office-holding. The two master pas-sions united in him. He had the advantage of knowing perfectly what he wanted. The key of the situation was wanted. The key of the situation was that the nomination of Cleveland would give what the wild Western theorists call capital—a cinch on the election Presidential, The Republican party is conservative; that is, opposed to destructiveness; to extravagant and desperate experiments, believing in "new markets, new factories and new ships," in progressive development; or formities in progressive development on familiar and prosperous lines. The Democratic party, irresponsible, has had the crimi nal weakness to cultivate all the There was no foolery that it did not think might be turned to account. With Clevelard on a British gold plank of course the Wall street end of the Democracy was recure, and subscriptions would do the rest. That was the bread highway.

tions would do the rest. That was the broad highway.
Everything, therefore, was directed to Cleveland and a money plank that would suit him. The Cleveland exoft. would suit him. The Cleveland ex-of-face holders were put in motion to fix the platform. As to the tariff, that was to be a "straddle," of course. Common prudence told that much. "The trouble anticipated was in demanding that all dollars should have equal "instrand exchangeable" value; that is, instrinsic that the silver dollar should have the "intrinsic and exchangeable" value of the gold dollar. "Intrinsic and exchangeable" means therefore the world's market value. The manipulation of the money that the manipulation of the money that the manipulation of the money. tion of the money matter was so per-fect there was little trouble. Capital put its big paw on Tammany and Tam-many was still. Cleveland was thus put its big paw on Tammany and Tammany was still. Cleveland was thus placed on a gold platform.

The fighting ability of the opposition to Cleveland was concentrated on the tariff plank, to give the great and good man, as was freely explained, the medicine he had administered to others in his rough and ready was invisioning. in his rough and ready, unscientific tariff radicalism. The Confederate free trade tariff resolution was repre-sentative of the party sentiments. It is out of the Confederate Constitution and contains the genuine Democratic sentiment. The gold plank does not.

The free coinage of silver belief is upheld by three-fourths of the men of the United States who call themselves. Democrats. Here was the third party opportunity. It was visible to the whole country. There was a chapce for a far more formidable third party than had appeared in our politics since the a far more formidable third party than had appeared in our politics, since the Know-Nothing-raid a generation ago. But the machinery was in the hands of cranks, and Weaver was ground out. Judge Gresham was in an attitude like that assumed by Chief Justice Chase in 1868 toward the Democracy. There does not seem to be any serious doubt that Gresham would have stood upon a platform of his own writing. Why did not the political fools I mean cranks—tell him to write it down and adopt it and run him on it! Why, just because they were cranks! The more cranky the crank the more particular he is about phrases. Judge Chase and Judge Gresham had, as Presidential possibilities, a bit of the weakness about language of which we speak. With all possibilities, a bit of the weakness about language of which we speak. With all their wisdom and experience, neither of them thought how much more important the administration of the law is than the phraseology of it; how flexible words are when a man has them to manage. Still, it must be remembered that there was a portentious sange of probathere was a portentous aange of proba-bility in the New York Democratic Con-vention of 1868 and the Omaha assemvention of 1868 and the Omaha assemblage of last summer. In spite of the Weaver weakness, there is still a restless mass of third partylsm. As the scenes shift in the Presidential play it is the true policy of observers—of Republicans especially—to study the changes. The Prohibition waste of vertex is not to be considered this time. rotes is not to be considered this time votes is not to be considered this time. It has come to represent those who are born hare-brained and driven by a consuming meddlesomepess and vanity to a passionate selfishness. It is a pity that a temperance reform should be made of temperance reform should be made offensive by these people.

For a time many, things promised a break-up of the solid South in this Presidential campaign. We have watched the developments closely and hopefully —not that we thought anything happening in the South would make a decisive difference in the general result, but thought his political fortunes would be promoted by giving his strength and adroitness to forming a Cleveland faction and keeping the State from a solid compliment to Brice with a view of gooding over to Gormon.

Half a dozen Southern States are Republican on the leading business questions of the day, and are detained on the road by the frantic fluttering of the Confederate bloody shirt—that is the Force bill flummery. After carefully reviewing the situation I came to certain conclusions and stated them as fully and frankly as time and space permitted. These are does well. Half a dozen Southern

1. South.

2. This is done at great cost and is 2. This is done at great cost and is almost, if not altogether, the last despairing effort of the decaying and disintegrating Democracy. At the same time it is not absolutely certain there will be success this time, for the Democratic organization is assailed in the South by an opposition so novel in its composition that it is an unknown quantity, and the older and shrewder the politician the deeper distrust he the politician the deeper distrust he has of a contest in which he has not taken the measure of the enemy, and "danger in the dark" is always a "danger in the dark" is always a panicky outery. More than this, at in tervals the people appear like a flood in a dry ravine when there has been udden dissolution of a thundercloud in the mountains. It is about time to look for a rush of mighty waters in the South. The elements of a revolution against the despotism of the Democratic party are there. All that is wanting is effer-vescing incidents.

[The movement in Alabama for an unpledged electoral ticket opposed to Cleveland may be the beginning of a Constitutional revolution. There is a ready resource in the Constitution for those who revolt in the South against the consolidated Democratic fraud and South can no more pretend to equality as a section with all the other sections. There is no longer a balance of power as between the South and the North. Saying North and South no longer expresses. The south is not half the Union—it is a corner of the country. This is just as plain as that no States east of the Mississippi, or even east of the Rocky Mountains, can any more be fairly called the West. are the sections? The South, the East, the Atlantic middle, the middle West, the Northwest, the Rocky Mountain and the Pacific slope.

4. The consolidated South, joined to the city of New York, no longer com-bined, command the situation. The old Democratic scheme is outgrown. The solid South will not give victory but insure defeat of the Dmocracy, partly by contrast of its wifullness in the presence of the questions on which real business is done ence of the que business is done.

5. Nothing can divert the country from passing directly and conclusively on the Democratic Confederate-British tariff substitute resolution at Chicago. The Democratic plan of destroying the industrial extern of the country in the concept of the control of t industrial system of the country by the extirpation of protection as an unconstitutional fraud-this including, of course, the abolition of the reciprocity. course, the abolition of the reciprocity treaties and the proceedings for the reestablishment of a commercial navy—surely cannot find favor with the enlightened people of the United States.

6. This particularly is true when we hear the Democratic candidate for the Vice-Presidency shouting that we must again administer to the people the "es-sence of justice" by the restoration of the war taxes on incomes and on manu-factures. There could not be a more stupid assault upon the conservative in-tinct and interests of the country.

7. Aside, therefore, from the Democratic disorders in New York, the acratic disorders in New York, the triumphant Tammanyites, with the mugwumps suppressed and Cleveland running after Richard Croker, the pitt-ful display of the surrender of tariff reform, civil service reform and all other pretenses of reform, in the pres-ence of the destroyers and the spoilsmen—the position of the Demo-cratic party is untenable and its defeat a public necessity and certainty.

Two most significant matters have just come into prominence—the conlwo most significant matters have just come into prominence—the con-vention in Alabama, that demands a fair count of free votes and United States supervision to prevent Demo-cratic fraud; that puts in the field an independent and cratic fraud; that puts in the field an independent and unpledged electoral ticket only bound to go against Cleveland because he is identified with a party of fraud, is one of those events. Such a blow, from such a source to the Democratil party is most deadly. It has a fateful look. We see now signs of more Democratic, treplation about the South than we had suspected was in existence. There was a suspicious ferver and thankfulness over our admission that if the unknown and un admission that if the unknown and un-expected did not explode the South would be solld once more and for the last time. Besides, in quoting us the Democracy paid no attention to the qualifications and explanation of the existence of a margin of doubt. The other event is the "consensus"— the mugwumps will excuse the use of their favorite word with due acknowl-edgement as accounts of statistics their favorite word with due acknowi-edgement—a consensus of statistics that the country is doing very well in and under the McKinley tariff law. All the figures corroborate Mr. Peck, and it is evident he was gulity of treason to the Democratic party by publishing the truth. The persecution of the man only drives the facts into the understanding of the people. Do they approve putting of the people. Do they approve putting him in the penitentiary for making him in the penitentiary for making known the facts? MURAT HALSTEAD.

The defense then introduced the follewing witnesses: L. M. Brown, Joel B. Parket, Mrs. E. L. Lewis and Mrs. Lydia T. Wood. From their testimony it was shown that on November 16 last Brown, the defendant's son-in-law, raised $2000 for Parker on some of his property. Which he subsequently turned property, which he subsequently turned over to Miss Lowell. The plaintiff heron being recalled, admitted that she had refused to marry Parker until the expiration of a year after the death of her sister, his former wife, which ocneim, owned two tracts of land there valued at $15,000, and that, although he had three daughters, Mrs. Brown Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Wood, all of whom lived in Los Angeles, and a son, 58 years of age, residing at Orange, he never mentioned his engagement with Mrs. Lowell to any of them.

The fact was also elicited that Parker had conveyed his property to his second wife, a matter which appeared to have aroused the ani-mosity of others than the plaintiff, and when the case is resumed today there will doubtless be some further develop-

It is by such a cataclysm which occurred about 5000 years ago, that Mr. Wheeler accounts for the remains of tropical flora and fauna which are found frozen in the ice of the frigid zone. "God helping me," cried Columbus, "though fair or foul the br I will sail and sail till I find the land beyond the western seas. So an eagle might leave its eyrie, bent, though the blue should To fold its wings on the loftiest peak of an undiscovered star!

And into the vast and void abyss he followed the setting sun;

Nor gulfs nor gales could fright his sails till the wondrous quest was done But Oh, the weary vigils, the murmuring, torturing days, Till the Pinta's gun, and the shout of "Land!" set the black night ablaze! Till the shore lay fair as Paradise in morning's balm and gold, And a world was won from the conquered deep, and the tale of the ages told!
Uplift the starry Banner! The best age is begun!
We are the heirs of the mariners whose voyage that morn was done, Measureless lands Columbus gave and rivers through zones that roll, But his revest, noblest bounty was a New World for the Soul!
For he sailed from the Past with its stifling walls, to the Future's open sky. And the ghosts of gloom and fear were laid as the breath of heaven went by; And the pedant's pride and the lordling's scorn were lost, in that vital air, As fors are lost when sun and wind sweep ocean blue and bare; And Freedom and larger Knowledge dawned clear, the sky to span, The birthright, not of priest or king, but of every child of man! Uplift the New World's Banner to greet the exultant sun! Let its rosy gleams still follow his beams as swift to west they run, Till the wide air rings with shout and hymn to welcome it shining high, And our eagle from lone Katahdin to Shasta's snow can fly In the light of its stars as fold on fold is flung to the autumn sky! Uplift it, Youths and Maidens, with songs and loving cheers; Through triumphs, raptures, it has waved, through agonies and tears. Columbia looks from sea to sea and thrills with joy to know Her myriad sons, as one, would leap to shield it from a foct And you who soon will be the State, and shape each great decree, Oh, yow to live and die for it, if glorious death must be! The brave of all the centuries gone this starry Flag have wrought; In dungeons dim, on gory fields, its light and peace were bought; And you who front the future-whose days our dreams fulfill-On Liberty's immortal height, oh, plant it firmer still! For it floats for broadest learning; for the soul's supreme release; For law disdaining license; for righteousness and peace: For valor born of justice, and its amplest scope and plan Makes a queen of every woman, a king of every man! While forever, like Columbus, o'er Truth's unfathomed main It pilots to the hidden isles, a grander realm to gain. Ah! what a mighty trust is ours, the noblest ever sung, To keep this Banner spotless its kindred stars among! Our fleets may throng the oceans—our forts the headlands crown— Our mines their treasures lavish for mint and mart and town-Rich fields and flocks and busy looms bring plenty, far and wide-And statelier temples deck the land than Rome's or Athens' pride-And science dare the mysteries of earth and wave and sky-Till none with us in splendor and strength and skill can vie; Yet, should we reckon Liberty and Manhood less than these, And elight the right of the humblest between our circling seas Should we be false to our sacred past, our fathers' God forgetting, This Banner would lose its luster, our sun be nigh his setting!

But the dawn will sconer forget the east, the tides their ebb and flow,

Than you forget our radiant Flag and its matchless gifts forego! Nay! you will keep it high-advanced with ever brightening sway-The Banner whose light betokens the Lord's diviner day-Leading the nations gloriously in Freedom's holy way! No cloud on the field of azure-no stain on the rosy bars-God bless you, Youths and Maidens, as you guard the Stripes and Stars! EDNA DEAN PROCTOR.

mind that it is intended that the school children should be the principal partici-pants in the exercises. The pupils are to be at their places in school at 9 o'clock as usual. It is desirable that be entirely suspended so that the relatives of the pupils may also present. Printed programmes should provided when possible, and the exercises will of course be subject to the limitations of the scholars, but everything which may be done should tend to the central ideas of Columbus' schievement and the remarkable prog ress of the country under the impetus of education. Appropriate patriotic deco-rations are necessary, and allegorical rations are necessary, and allegorical tableaux will add greatly to the effectiveness and enjoyment of the exercises. Music is also desirable.

In the afternoon comes the citizens celebration, but, as in the morning exercises, the school children should take the most prominent part. Of course in the country districts this will not be the case, and the afternoon should be deroted to games for the young people and social gatherings for their elders, though every house should be decorated with the national colors. In the towns the afternoon should be devoted to some sort of formal celebration, in which all of and military organizations should be invited to participate.

A review of school children after they have reached the reviewing stand and saluted the flag will add much to the "life and color" of the scene. A mass meeting of the citizens should follow during the day, when the best orators of the locality, and the most elo-quent of the declaimers among the children—say one from each school—might deliver addresses appropriate to the occasion. The topics of these speeches will readily suggest themselves, but it must be borne in mind that anything relating to Columbus will be more interesting than anything else on such an occasion. The flag salute, the ode and the patriotic songs should be executed by the children without a hitch, and for this reason a great deal children-say one from each school-of preliminary work will have to be one by them.

Upon the school teachers will devolve the greatest portion of this fabor. Each teacher should at once, if it has not already been done, present the matter of the celebration of Columbus Day to his pupils, and it should be laid before the young people in such a manner that each will be anxious to contribute as much as possible to the success of the affair. Enthusiasm is what is wanted and needed, for without it failure must result. Let each teacher select committees on reception, on decorations, on exercises, on printing, on newspapers, on arrangements and on finance. The principal must be actually if not nomthe directing spirit of each com-

At the morning exercises at the schools the veterans should have charge of the flag and should also act as guards of honor to the schools on the march to the reviewing stand. The peculiar appropriateness of the veterans being the special patrons of the school celebration is apparent. Money and the active co-opera-tion of the citizens at large are absolutely necessary to the success of the celebration, and these should and probably will be promptly forthcoming.
Only the general outlines of exercises suggested in the official programme are here given. These may be enlarged or contracted to conform to the wishes and possibilities of the celebrants.

THE PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION

He Recommends the General Observance of Columbus Day on Oct. 21.

Whereas, by a joint resolution, app well. June 29, 1892, it was resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, "That the president of the United States be authorized and directed to issue a preclamation result." president of the United States be authorized and directed to issue a proclamation recom-mending to the people the observance in all their localities of the 40th anniversary of the discovery of America, on the 2st of October, 1892, by public demonstrations and by suitable exercises in their schools and other places of assembly;"

Now, therefore, I. Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States of America, in pursuance of the aforesald joint resolution, do hereby appoint Friday, Oct. 21, 182, the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by suance of the aforesaid joint resolution, do hereby appoint Friday, Oct. 21, 1825, the 400th anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus, as a general holiday for the people of the United States. On that day let the people so far as possible cease from toil and devote themselves to such exercises as may best express honor to the discoverer and their appreciation of the great achievements of the four completed centuries of American life. Columbus stood in his age as the pioneer of progress and enlightenment. The system of universal education is in our age the most prominent and salutary feature of the spirit of enlightenment, and it is peculiarly appropriate that the schools be made by the people the center of the day's demonstration. Let the national flag float over every school house in the country, and the exercises be such as shall impress upon our youth the patriotic duties of American citizenship.

In the churches and in the other places of assembly of the people let there be expressions of gratitude to divine Providence for the devout faith of the discoverer, and for the divine care and guidance which have directed our history and so abundantly blessed our people. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the soal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this Zist day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, and of the independence of the United States to be affixed.

NEW AND OLD books, magazines, etc.

HE spectacle this day is with history. From ocean to ocean in city, village and countryside—the children of Fron marching under the banner of the them the people are gathering around the school house.

Men are recognizing today the most mpressive anniversary since Rome celebrated her thousandth year-the 400th anniversary of the stepping of a hemi-sphere into the world's life; four completed centuries of a new social orders the celebration of liberty and enlighten-ment organized into a civilization.

And while during these hours the federal government of these United States strikes the keynote of this great American day that gives honor to the common American institution which unites us all, we assemble here that we, too, may exalt the free school that em too, may exalt the free school that em-bodies the American principle of uni-versal enlightenment and equality, the most characteristic product of the four centuries of American life.

Four hundred years ago this morning the Pinta's gun broke the silence and announced the discovery of this hemi-sphere.

It was a virgin world. Human life hitherto upon it had been without significance. In the Old World for thounuceance. In the Old World for hou-sands of years civilized men had been trying experiments in social order. They had been found wanting. But-here was an untouched soil that lay ready for a new experiment in civilizaready for a new experiment in civiliza-tion. All things were ready. New forces had come to light full of over-turning power in the Old World. In the New World they were to work to-gether with a mighty harmony. It was for Columbus, propelled by this fresh life, to reveal the land where these new forces were to be given space for de-velopment, and where the awaited trial of the new civilization was to be made.

Today we reach our most memorable nilestone. We look backward and we look forward.

Backward we see the first mustering Backward we see the first mustering of modern ideas; their long conflict with Old World theories, which were also transported hither. We see stalwart men and brave women one moment on the shore, then disappearing in dim for-ests. We hear the ax. We see the flame of burning cabins and hear the cry of the savage. We see the never ceasing, wagon trains always toiling westward. We behold log cabins becoming villages, then cities. We watch the growth of institutions out of little beginnings schools becoming an educational system; meeting houses leading into organic Christianity; town meetings growing to political movements; county discussions developing federal governments.

We see hardy men with intense convictions grappling, struggling, often amid battle smoke, and some idea charand battle smore, and some load saar-acteristic of the New World always triumphing. We see settlements knit-ting together into a nation with single-ness of purpose. We note the birth of the modern system of industry and commerce and its striking forth into undersumed of wealth, making the millions members one of another as sentiment could never bind. And under it all and through it all, we fasten on certain principles ever operating and regnantthe leadership of manhood: equal rights for every soul: universal enlightenment as the source of progress. These last are the principles that have shaped America: these principles are the true Americanism.

We look forward. We are conscion we are in a period of transition. Ideas in education, in political economy, in social science are undergoing revis social science are undergoing revisions. There is a large uncertainty about the outcome. But faith in the underlying, principles of Americanism and in God's destiny for the republic makes a firm ground of hope. The coming century promises to be more than ever the age of the people—an age that shall develop a greater care for the rights of the a greater care for the rights of the weak and make a more solid provision for the development of each individual by the education that meets his need. As no prophet among our fathers on pictured what the new century would do, so no man can this day reach out and grasp the 100 years upon which the nation is now entering. On the victorious results of the completed centuries principles of Americanism will build our fifth century. Its material progress is beyond our conception, but we may be sure that in the social relations of men with men the most triumphant gains are to be expected. America's fourth century has been glorious; Amer-

America therefore gathers her sons around the school house today as the institution closest to the people, most char-acteristic of the people and fullest of hope for the people. Today America's fifth century begins.

The world's twentieth century will soon be here. To the thirteen millions now in the American schools the command of the coming years belongs. THE OFFICIAL PROGRAMME.

T IS now know to all readers Harrison has is sued a proclamation naming Oct. 21 as the true an-niversary of the discovery of America, and recommending its observance by in all the schools of the United States. A uniform programme for every school in America, to be used on Columbus Day simultaneously with the dedicatory exercises of the World's Columbian exexercises of the World's Columbian exposition grounds in Chicago, will give an impressive unity to the popular celebration. Accordingly, when the superintendents of education last February accepted the plan for this national public school celebration, they instructed their executive committee to prepare an official programme of exercises for the day, uniform for every school.

The following programme has been prepared by the committee:

prepared by the committee:

The schools should assemble at 9 a. m. in their various rooms. At 9:30 the detail of veterans a expected to arrive. It is to be met at the entrance of the yard by the color guard of pupils, escorted with dignity to the building and presented to the principal. The principal then gives the signal and the several teachers conduct their pupils to the yard, to drumbeat or other music, and arrange them in hollow square about the flag, the veterans and color guard taking places by the flag itself. The master of ceremonies then gives the command, "Attention!" and begins the exercises by reading the proclamation.

1. READING OF THE PRESIDENT'S PROC-LAMATION. By the Master of Ceremonies.

At the cice of the reading he announces:
"In accordance with this recommendation by the president of the United States, and as a sign of our devotion to our country, let the fing of the nation be unfurled above this second."

2. RAISING OF THE FLAG. By the Vet-

As the flag reaches the masthcad the veterans will lead the assemblage in "Three Cheers for 'Old Glory,'"

3. SALUTE TO THE FLAG. By the Pupils. At a signal from the principal the pupils, in ordered ranks, bands to the side, face the flag. ordered ranke, bands to the side, face the flag. Another signal is given; every pupil gives the flag the military salute—right hand lifted, palm downward/to a line with the forehead and close to it. Standing thus all repeat together slowly, "I pledge allegiance to my flag and the republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." At the words "to my flag" the right hand is gettended gracefully, palm upward, toward the flag, and remains in this gesture till the end of the affirmation, whereupon all liahas humediately drop to the side. Then, still standing, as the instruments strike a chord, all will sing "America"—"My country, 'tis of thee."

4. ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF GOD. Prayer or Scripture. 5. Song of Columbus Day. By Pupils and Audience.

Air-"Lyons."

Golumbia, my landl all hall the glad day
When first to thy strand Hope pointed the way; Hail him who thro' darkness first followed the

Flame
That led where the Mayflower of Liberty came. Dony Country, the star of the valiant and free

Thy exiles afar are dreaming of thee. No fields of the Earth so enchantingly shine, No air breathes such incense, such music a thine. Humanity's home! thy sheltering breast Gives welcome and room to strangers oppress'd. Palo children of Hunger and Hatred and Wrong Find life in thy freedom and joy in thy song.

The fairest estate the lowly may hold.
Thy poor may grow great, thy feeble grow bold.
To worth is the watchword to noble degree,
And manhood is mighty where manhood is

O union of States and union of souls!
The promise awaits, the fature unfolds,
And-earth from her twilight is halling the sun
That rises where people and rulers are one.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Francis Bellamy, chairman, represent-ing The Youth's Companion, Boston. John W. Dickinson, secretary of the Massachusetts board of education Thomas B. Stockwell, commission Rhode Island public schools.

W. R. Garrett, superintendent of pub-lic instruction of Tennessee. Ferris S. Fitch, superintendent of pub-lie instruction of Michigan.

The School Review.

One of the most striking suggestions for the local observances of Columbus Day is that in every town and city in the land the schools parade after the morning exercises of the celebration.

While this is not specifically included in the official programme prepared for the mittee of educators who have had the uniform celebration in charge

If there is a general parade of the civic and military organizations a "public school review" should be its most honored feature. If there is no general procession the schools alone reviewed. Let the pupils meet at their school houses at a designated hour and be conducted by effinated hour and be conducted by ela-cient marshals, without delays and in perfect order, to their places in the line. The army veterans north and south, the blue and the gray alike, are properly to march with the schools as special guards of honor. As the reviewing stand is reached each part of the column can salute the flag with cheers and waving of handkerchiefs and caps.

The various patriotic organizations might fittingly be invited both to the morning exercises and to serve, in addition to the veterans, as escorts in the review. The beauty of the review would be heightened if each school carried both the national flag and a distinctive banner of its own. The review also might be made impressive by symbolic floats; models of the "old red school house" and of the ship of Columbus are ariong the appropriate subjects. This feature, however, should not be attempted unless it can be effectively done. In all cases, let it be said, the fantastic should be rigorously barred from the procession.

[Harper's]

He was a very tired-looking man.
Dejection was written on every line of his face, and, as I was a stranger in the village, with nothing to do and no one to talk to, I relieved my own pent-up spirits by expressing my sympathy with him in his troubles, whatever they were.

"Thanks," he said. "My chief trouble seems to be that I am an idlot from Idiotville, and that is incurable. I just got into a braggin match with a I just got into a braggin' match with a stranger up in the postoffice. He bet he was richer'n I was, an' I took him up, just for a bluff. I told him everything I had an' more, too, and after a while he gave in, sayin' as how he wouldn't have thought it. Then I said I'd swear to it, 'n' he said all right, an' I did and by though what would he would by the later was the said all right, an' I did, and, by thunder, who do you suppose he was? "I don't know," I answered.

"Who? "The Tax Assessor!" he moaned. It certainly was a case of hard luck.

His Rise. [New York Press.]

"Talk about these labor unions, why, they're the making of workingmen." "You think so?" "Yes; there's Shirk for instance. I'wo years ago he was one of the cheap est hands in the factory, couldn't earn more than $6 a week. Look at him today. Large salary, well dressed, and little to do."

'What is he. A foreman?" "No, he is a walking delegate."
